Blockfolio has launched zero-fee cryptocurrency trading within its portfolio tracking app, according to an announcement Friday.

The firm is also listing all tokenized stocks listed on derivatives exchange FTX in the trading service (available to non-U.S. users only).

A Blockfolio representative told CoinDesk it decided to include these offerings due to the ongoing situation with Robinhood, which has restricted some stock and crypto offerings amid the GameStop trading craze started by Reddit group WallStreetBets.

Above them is the Stellar logo and the word 'Stellar'. In the center, the words 'BREAKING NEWS' are written in large, bold, black capital letters. To the right of this, the text 'Blockchain has real use cases' is written in a large, bold, black font. Below this, in a smaller font, it says 'Learn more at www.stellar.org/RealWorld'. The background of the banner is a mix of white and yellow with some abstract shapes.

"There is a wave of new users coming into the crypto space who need simple, easy tools to help them navigate what can be a daunting industry. Since we've always tried to be the most user friendly companion app for the crypto industry, bringing dead-simple, zero fee trading into the app was a natural next step for Blockfolio," said Jonathan Chu, Blockfolio's head of product.
